BE YOU.
BE A
FALCON.
Welcome HOME.

Being a Falcon means you are part of this family, not just a student attending a university. You matter. The real you. (We see you.) This is a place where it’s OK to be yourself and explore all the things that make you, well, you. This is a place you can make your own.

This is your home away from home.
AT FAIRMONT STATE, YOU ARE GOING TO FIND YOUR TRIBE.

You are going to make friends who will be with you for the rest of your life. Everything won’t be perfect. You’re going to get to know yourself through your good choices and even those that aren’t so good.

FIND YOUR TRIBE.

“The commute isn’t bad… I roll out of bed and can walk to all my classes within five minutes. I love everything about University Terrace. It’s kind of like living in a big hotel.”

MORROW HALL, PENCE HALL AND PRICHARD HALL are traditional, co-ed style residence halls:

- They offer community-style bathrooms, kitchens and lounges.
- Double and single rooms include wardrobes, beds and desks.
- Prichard Hall is the Honors and International Learning Community and also has a faculty leader who resides on the main floor.
- Pence Hall has single units on the 2nd and 3rd floors.

Bryant Place and University Terrace are non-traditional residential facilities offering a variety of options:

BRYANT PLACE

- Our largest residence hall offers private suite-style living.
- Suites house four students in single rooms or four students in double rooms.
- Suites include shower, sinks and bathroom facilities.
- Suites include smaller lounge areas conducive for studying in groups or socializing with friends.

UNIVERSITY TERRACE

- Our newest residence hall has state of the art studio single, double and quad apartments.
- All units are furnished.
- Semi-suites are available to freshmen or upperclassmen in the West building. A semi-suite is an area where two students share a bedroom; these suites share a bathroom with two other students.
- Apartments house upperclassmen only and follow residence hall rules.
The Victory Bell:

Painting The Victory Bell is an iconic tradition held between sundown and sunup. Student organizations compete to see which design is the last to be painted before sunrise. The winner’s art is displayed in the center of campus, until the competition resumes the next evening.

MAKE YOUR MARK.

FOUR SEASONS TO ENJOY.
A faculty mentor is going to push you to reach your full potential, and you're going to remember that professor for the rest of your life.

“When I got to Fairmont, not only were the people genuine but they were really interested in helping you and helping you to become the best you can be, your most authentic person.”
You are more than a number or a face in a crowd. We see you, the real you, a person with a future. The truth is that you will face ups and downs along the way, but THE JOURNEY WILL BE WORTH IT.
Sarah Sakaguchi
HOMETOWN: Gibbon Glade, PA
MAJORS: Spanish, Political Science and National Security & Intelligence

"Scheduling as a triple-major is like putting all the puzzle pieces together that will eventually become a masterpiece. And no one looks at me like I am crazy. They believe in me and they enable me to be who I am and to meet my goals. I would like to one day become the Secretary of State or the Secretary of Defense."

FARFETCHED DREAMS...

WE UNDERSTAND that not every future starts the same way and we have the programs and the flexibility that allow you to receive a degree that fits who you are and who you want to become.

NO SUCH THING.
FIGHT ON.

WE ARE THE FIGHTING FALCONS AND WE BELIEVE THERE IS AN INNER WARRIOR IN ALL OF US.

Some show it on the field and others in the classroom. When you are staring your opponent in the eye, whoever or whatever that opponent is, don’t give up and know that we are cheering you on every step of the way!
