

ANNUAL REPORT ON GRADUATE PROGRAMS AT FAIRMONT STATE UNIVERSITY 2013

Fairmont State University currently has four (4) independent graduate programs of study:

- Master of Education with various concentrations including: Digital Media, New Literacies and Learning; Exercise Science, Fitness and Wellness; Professional Studies; Online Learning; Reading; and Special Education.
- Master of Arts in Teaching.
- Master of Science in Criminal Justice.
- Master of Business Administration.

The Master of Science in Human Services program has been terminated. The three (3) students reported last year as continuing in the program did not graduate and are no longer pursuing the degree.

Fairmont State University has approved a degree area change at the graduate level for the M.Ed, initial teacher certification concentration in Special Education. Graduate programs in the School of Education, Health and Human Performance (SoEHHP) included two program concentrations in Special Education under the M.Ed.: 1) a program of study for candidates holding a prior certification in a teaching field other than Special Education; and, 2) a program of study for candidates without any prior teaching certification. After careful review of the program by graduate faculty, candidates in and graduates of the program, and SoEHHP leadership, the faculty determined that, as an initial certification program, the program of study would be more consistent with the structure of the M.A.T., a degree area designed for content area candidates seeking initial licensure at the graduate level. The proposed change has been unanimously approved by the following governance groups:

- SoEHHP Graduate Faculty (Jan. 11, 2013)
- SoEHHP Faculty (Feb. 7, 2013)
- Graduate Council (May 8, 2013)
- FSU EPPAC (Educator Professional Preparation Advisory Committee) (May 13, 2013)

On June 21, 2013, The Vice President for Accreditation Relations with The Higher Learning Commission of NCA indicated that there are no issues or concerns regarding implementation of this change.

The proposed Master of Science in Architecture degree received approval by the Commission on December 7, 2012, with the approval subject to implementation by January 2015. The Fairmont State University Graduate Council approved the degree proposal on February 13, 2013. A Substantive Change Application has been submitted to the Higher Learning Commission, but no decision has been received to date. Pending HLC approval, the College of Science and Technology plans to work closely with the National Architectural Accrediting Board to review the program of study and assure future accreditation status is received.

The School of Nursing and Allied Health Administration hosts select classes on campus for the Master of Science in Nursing at Marshall University. Students admitted, enrolled, and graduated are included in reports submitted by Marshall University.

The following table contains the number of students enrolled in each graduate program. The “To Date” numbers will not correlate with the numbers reported last year. It was discovered that previously reported data included duplication for students enrolled for more than one year. It was determined that the previously reported numbers inflated the actual enrollments “To Date”. The numbers reported below are consistent with other HEPC and IPEDS reports.

Criminal Justice:

The Criminal Justice course prefix has been changed from CRJU to CRIM. The CRJU course prefix was a shared prefix with Pierpont Community & Technical College. In preparation for seeking specialized certification for the Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice, a curriculum proposal was passed during the spring semester 2013 changing the prefix from CRJU to CRIM. Pierpont Community & Technical College continues to use the CRJU prefix. The CRIM prefix is owned and used exclusively by Fairmont State University. As such, all Master of Science in Criminal Justice course prefixes were changed to the CRIM prefix as well.

CRIM 6635 (Seminar in Offender Rehabilitation) had been offered only as a special topic. Graduate Council approved this course as a regularly offered course beginning with the 2013-14 academic year.
